BALANCED BUDGET RECOMMENDED

Ohio Subdivisions Increasing
Bonded Indebtedness.

TRACY SEES FINANCIAL CRISIS

State Auditor Deprecates Temporary Legislative Remedial Measures, Declaring a Sound Financial Plan Should Be Evolved For All Local Taxing Districts and a Balanced Budget Established.

Columbus, Nov. 20.—In the first of his annual reports concerning the financial condition of the state, State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy announced that Ohio political subdivisions during the past year reached a financial crisis by increasing their bonded indebtedness 8 per cent, or an aggregate of $53,330,210.

Tracy declares that, as predicted in former reports, the crisis in the financial affairs of many political subdivisions of the state has arrived. "Such a result," he states, "has been inevitable since 1910, when legislation greatly restricted the revenues with no strict limitation on the debt-creating powers of the local authorities."

The state auditor points out that the current running expenses of government in many cities, villages and school districts has been converted into deficiency bonds or certificates of indebtedness, payable whenever funds were available. Many villages and school districts are defaulting in the payment of their debt obligations, he said, and credit is thus impaired. In some instances it has taken the entire tax levy to meet the sinking fund obligations, he asserted.

In commenting on the remedial course which must be pursued, Auditor Tracy said: "No taxing district is on a sound financial basis until the current revenues are sufficient to meet the running expenses of the government. Bonded debt obligations should not be issued except for public improvements and permanent betterments by means of remedial legislation at each succeeding session of the legislature."

Tracy also deprecated temporary legislative remedial measures. "Instead of temporary relief by means of special remedial legislation at each succeeding session of the legislature, a sound financial plan should be evolved for all local taxing districts, a balanced budget established on a permanent basis, and strictly adhered to by all future administrations. It is the only sane relief from the bankrupt condition now obtaining in many districts of the state."

Counties, cities, villages, townships and schools, the subdivisions dealt with in this report of July 1, pushed their aggregate indebtedness from $760,589,834 in 1923 to $818,920,044 in 1924.

Only 23 counties of the state are credited with debt decreases during the past year. They are: Auglaize, Champaign, Clark, Columbiana, Fayette, Darke, Harrison, Huron, Licking, Logan, Madison, Miami, Ottawa, Paulding, Pickaway, Pike, Portage, Sandusky, Seneca, Shelby, Van Wert, Warren and Williams.

At the February and August settlements, 1924, the total taxes collected for county, city, village, township and school districts was $224,913,968.57. Assuming that the average rate of interest paid by such political subdivisions is 5 per cent, a total of approximately $41,000,000, or 18 per cent of the taxes collected, must be used to pay the interest on the outstanding debts, the report pointed out.

SAY FREIGHT RATES CUT

Railroads Save $900,000,000 In Operating Expenses In 1923.

New York, Nov. 20.—The nation's railroads saved $932,591,000 in operating expenses in 1923 and passed along $657,000,000 of this sum to the public in the shape of reduced freight rates. This statement was issued by the American Railway association after the annual meeting here. During the first eight months in 1923, according to the statement, the shipping public was saved another $380,000,000 through reduced freight charges. The total reduction in freight charges since 1921, "which marked the peak in freight rates as a result of the order of the commission in ex parte 74," was given as $1,373,000,000. The sum saved to the public in 1922 was about half that saved in 1923, or $336,000,000. The marked saving of freight tariffs, the statement observed, was attributable to increased efficiency and economy in operation.

GAS PROBLEMS AIRED

Expert Engineer to Make Survey of the Gas Fields.

Columbus, Nov. 20.—Employment of W. J. Hagenah of Chicago as expert engineer to represent cities which are members of the municipal gas conference was approved at a meeting of the conference here. His appointment becomes effective as soon as funds are available. Hagenah has been engaged in similar work in Pittsburgh and other cities. Seven cities, Columbus, Bucyrus, Dayton, Cincinnati, Youngstown, Pittsburgh and Erie were represented at the meeting. A committee composed of City Attorney Leach of Columbus, S. L. Gillson, city attorney of Erie, and C. K. Robinson, city attorney of Pittsburgh, was appointed to prepare a definite plan and program of work for the engineer. The committee is to be composed of five members, two of whom will be appointed later.

AGAINST ACTION BY CONGRESS

Rail Conditions Do Not Call for Legislation, Executives Say.

New York, Nov. 20.—The Association of Railway Executives, in annual meeting here, defined their position as follows: That all railroad problems as they arise should be dealt with and settled as economic questions, which they are, and not as political issues, which they are not; that there is no condition existing today which calls for any urgent legislative action by congress with respect to the railroads either as to rates, labor relationship or valuation; that railroad freight rate and passenger fare adjustments should be left to the duly constituted government regulating body; that amendments to the transportation act which may be demonstrated to be necessary by experience under normal business conditions should be made only after a fair and judicial consideration of all pertinent economic facts; that the carriers should seek every legitimate way to enlighten the public on all phases of the complex transportation industry by the dissemination of authoritative information, and that the railroads are determined to continue their policies of expansion, to provide adequate transportation for the increasing commerce of the country, and to strive in every way to bring about greater efficiency in operation and a progressive reduction in cost.

Fire Attacks Factory.

Columbus, Nov. 20.—Fire did $60,000 damage to the main building of the Ohlen-Bishop Saw company here. The blaze started in the tempering room, located in the rear half of the structure, and was followed by an explosion caused by gas, it is believed, which scattered flames to all parts of the building.

Police Chief Demoted.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes was demoted as the result of a shakeup in the Chicago police department. Shortly after Hughes was transferred to an outlying police station, he handed his resignation to Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins, declaring that politics was responsible for the action against him. This Collins and Mayor Dwyer denied.

MAILMEN SEEK WAGE INCREASE

Would Have Bill Passed Over the President's Veto.

ORGANIZATION STARTS DRIVE

No Effort to Be Made to Press Farm Legislation at the Short Session Before President Coolidge's Agricultural Commission Makes Report, Emergency Problems to Receive Consideration, However.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The National Association of Letter Carriers is waging a campaign to influence congressmen and senators to work for the bill to increase wages of postal employees. The bill passed both houses with large majorities last session, but was vetoed by President Coolidge. In its campaign the organization is attempting to obtain the passage of the bill over the president's veto.

Postal employees are asking a $300 a year raise on their present salaries, which range from $1,400 for the first year to $1,800 for the fifth year and thereafter.

Representative Tincher (Rep., Kan.), spokesman for the house farm bloc, announced after a conference with Senator Curtis (Rep., Kan.) that no effort will be made to press farm legislation at the impending session before the president's commission reports. In the opinion of farm bloc members, he explained, agriculture, especially in a large section of the west, has been given sufficient stimulus to tide the farmers over for the time being.

Members of the administration's agricultural commission have decided that any effort to formulate a program to provide lasting prosperity for the farmer would be time wasted until official statistics on all phases of the question could be prepared to guide them.

Every agency of the government charged with administration of farm regulations, the gathering of production and marketing statistics, financing and transportation has been asked to compile the desired information for the commission, and the commission will reassemble as soon as the data is ready.

While the work of the commission is expected by Chairman Carey of Wyoming to carry its activities past March 4, when the present congress expires, emergency problems are to be disposed of as quickly as possible, to permit legislative action, in accordance with the wishes of President Coolidge, without undue delay. With this purpose in mind, the cattle industry, described by the commissioners as being in a "depressed" condition, is to be given first consideration.

Work on four of the annual appropriations for the various government departments is being expedited by the subcommittees of the house appropriations committee, so that the measures may be ready for the house when it convenes Dec. 1.

One of the measures under consideration provides for the treasury and postoffice departments and the others to take care of the navy, interior and agricultural departments. Work on a fifth, the army bill, is expected to begin about Nov. 24.

UNDER WATER

General Williams Would Store Reserve Power For War Department.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Major General C. C. Williams, chief of ordnance, makes recommendations in his annual report that the reserve powder for the war department be stored under water, as a means of safety. Tests to determine the efficacy of underwater storage recently were made in the Chesapeake bay, near Baltimore. "It has been found," the report says, "that powder deterioration is much more rapid in dry storage than in wet. In fact, during the calendar year 1923, at the Charleston ordnance reserve depot, two magazines and their contents were destroyed, presumably due to spontaneous combustion, resulting from deterioration of the smokeless powder in the magazine. Underwater storage of stocks of smokeless powder will, it is believed, serve to prolong the life of the powder and postpone the day on which it will have to be replaced by new manufacture. In addition, powder in dry storage requires careful surveillance. If the reserves of smokeless powder are stored under water this expense will be avoided."

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Probing Mrs. Sheatsley's Death.

Columbus, Nov. 20.—Another day's effort on the part of city and county officials investigating the death of Mrs. C. V. Sheatsley, wife of the pastor of Christ Lutheran church of Bexley, whose remains were found in the furnace of the Sheatsley home Monday evening, served only to deepen the maze of mystery which surrounds the whole affair. Rev. Mr. Sheatsley stated to Prosecutor King that he was convinced that his wife had taken her own life by crawling into the furnace and burning to death. The prosecutor decided to transfer his investigation, for a day at least, to Paris, O., girlhood home of Mrs. Sheatsley and present residence of her mother and brothers.

Nurse Dies of Injuries.

Columbus, Nov. 20.—Miss Eunice Mann, 45, nurse of Portsmouth, died in Grant hospital here from internal injuries sustained in an automobile accident near Ashville. Miss Mann, with her uncle and aunt, also of Portsmouth, were returning to their home after having spent the day in Columbus, when the accident happened. Their machine went into a ditch after a collision with another automobile.

Caddy Sues For $20,000.

Canton, O., Nov. 20.—A suit for $20,000 damages for the loss of his right eye was filed here by Eugene Butler, a caddy at the Alliance Country club, against Clement J. Bates of Alliance. The boy, in his petition, states that while caddying for Bates he latter drove a ball that struck him in the eye.

Judge Wright Dead.

Columbus, Nov. 20.—Judge W. V. Wright, 60, of New Philadelphia, O., died in Mt. Carmel hospital here after a short illness. He was serving the third year of his six-year term on the common pleas bench in Tuscarawas county, and formerly served as a postoffice clerk and inspector in Columbus.

Dredge Founders.

Sandusky, O., Nov. 20.—The dredge Toledo, owned and operated by the Labeau Wrecking company of Toledo, went down in Lake Erie about a mile and a half west of Rattlesnake Island. The is on the bottom in 30 feet of water after encountering high winds and rough seas.

Boat Builder Dead.

Marietta, O., Nov. 20.—Captain Morris G. Knox, veteran riverman, boat builder and designer of passenger craft, died at his home here at the age of 92 years. He was known throughout the middle west for his skill in designing and constructing river craft.

Young Hunter Shot Twice.

Washington, C. H., O., Nov. 20.—While hunting, Daniel Thompson, 16, of Waterloo, Fayette county, was struck in the chin with stray shot from another hunter. He continued to hunt and a short time later was shot in the leg.

Fatal Fall.

Cleveland, Nov. 20.—A fall down a flight of stairs resulted in a broken neck and instant death for Joseph Kucharski, 38, who was found by neighbors at the bottom of the steps of his home.

Man, Wife and Child Perish. Toledo, Nov. 20.—William Donaldson, wife and 10-months-old baby, Betty Jean, perished in a fire that destroyed their home in Perrysburg. Two other children were rescued.

Farmer Loses Life.

Bellefontaine, O., Nov. 20.—Christian B. Yoder, 55, farmer of near West Liberty, was fatally injured while assisting in corn shredding at a neighbor's farm when his hat blew from his head. Reaching for his hat, he stepped too near the edge of the wagon on which he was standing and fell onto the belt of the shredder. He died a few hours later.

TAFT OUTLINES TAX PROGRAM

Relief Measures to Save Ohio
Cities Suggested.

CITY OFFICIALS HOLD MEETING

Permanent Organization Will Be Formed to Fight For Legislation to Relieve Financial Embarrassment Which Faces the Buckeye State's Larger Municipalities—Townes of Cleveland Named Chairman.

Columbus, Nov. 20.—Representatives of 30 of the largest cities in Ohio, in session here, perfected temporary organization of the conference of Ohio municipal officials and elected Clayton C. Townes, mayor of Cleveland, as president and George Hoffman, mayor of Lorain, as secretary.

A permanent organization of municipal officials to look after common interests and fight for legislation to relieve financial embarrassment, which faces practically all of Ohio's larger cities, seems assured. It will be formed in January.

Mayor Clayton C. Townes of Cleveland was named permanent chairman of the meeting and was authorized to appoint committees on a constitution, legislative program, and membership and finance. These committees will report at the next meeting here in January.

Although Representative Robert Taft of Cincinnati said he did not think any basic changes in tax legislation of a wide and sweeping nature could be put through at the coming legislative session, relief measures to save cities from threatened bankruptcy might be successful with united and concerted action on the part of cities. These, he suggested, should be: Remedial legislation placing cities on an equal basis with counties and school districts, so far as issuing bonds without a vote of the people is concerned; legislation permitting cities to vote as many levies on themselves as they desire, outside the 15-mill Smith law limit; repeal of the Smith law provisions that provide that levies for interest and sinking funds take precedence over those for current expenses and improvements; legislation providing that when voters pass on a proposed bond issue they also vote on whether interest and sinking fund levies made necessary shall be placed outside the Smith law limitations; legislation providing that in all cases where bonds are issued without a vote the issue shall be submitted to the state tax commission, and legislation increasing the measure of home rule for cities by providing that when a city has fixed its own tax limitations those imposed by the legislature shall not apply.

NEW RADIUM TREATMENT

Apparent Cures Reported Effected In Cases of Cancer.

Philadelphia, Nov. 20.—Members of the Eastern Homeopathic association, in clinic sessions here, saw demonstrated apparent cures said to have been effected in cases of cancer. The results were described by Dr. Frank C. Benson, Jr., who conducted the clinic, as the most marvelous he had ever seen, but he cautioned the physicians that no final opinion would be reached until after experiments lasting five years more.

The basis of the treatment, which recently was discovered by physicians at the Hahnemann hospital, consists of a radium emanation. "Unlike former radium treatments," Dr. Benson said, "the present one does not attempt to destroy cancerous tissues. Instead the diseased tissue is apparently restored to normal." The substance used in the treatment is a product of the disintegration of radium and remains active only 27 days. It is placed in glass tubes about one inch long and no larger in circumference than a needle. These tubes are placed near the diseased tissue and allowed to remain there for a varying number of days. All forms of malignant tumors appeared to respond to the rays.

Destroyed by Fire.

Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 20.—Fire destroyed the main hangar, four planes and a big stock of United States army airplane repair materials at Hatbox flying field here. Origin of the blaze is undetermined.

Commission Ousted.

Cleveland, Nov. 20.—Cuyahoga county building commission, appointed to erect a new jail seven years ago, were ousted in an opinion by Judge C. S. Reid of Washington C. H., sitting here.

WOULD SAVE TIMBER

President Coolidge In Speech Suggests Specific Program.

Washington, Nov. 20.—A specific program of timber saving was asked by President Coolidge in his address before the national conference on utilization of forest products. He said the nation faces timber exhaustion, and the situation must be met by diminishing waste and increasing the supply, he declared. The resources of the nation are a trust, Mr. Coolidge declared, subject to use by the present generation, administered free of monopolies and from those "who will unwisely permit them to be dissipated," but there must be restoration as well as use. About 745,000,000 cubic feet of timber is left in this country, he pointed out, and against this supply there is an annual consumption of 25,000,000,000 cubic feet, while the annual timber growth is only 6,000,000,000 cubic feet. In the face of this situation, he declared, the nation must turn to the problem of growing wood from the soil, like any other crop. The president added he saw hopeful signs in federal legislation as enacted in the Clarke-McNary bill passed by the last session of congress, making provision for fire protection and restoration, and in the Weeks law, authorizing government purchase of numerous forest tracts.

Corey Resigns.

Washington, Nov. 20.—M. L. Corey resigned as a member of the federal farm loan board and it is understood that the president has accepted the resignation. Corey, who is from Nebraska, was appointed to the board as a representative of the midwestern farming area. His intention to leave the board to resume the practice of law was indicated several months ago, when Corey declared it was too much of a sacrifice to remain in his present position. He will practice his profession in New York.

UNCLE SAM'S STAND

Restriction of Narcotics at the Point of Production.

London, Nov. 20.—The American delegation at the international opium conference at Geneva proposed that narcotic be restricted at its source. Only by the most drastic restriction at the point of production, the Americans held, could the quantity of illicit drugs reaching the people of the world be shut off or curtailed. Consequently they proposed prevention of a surplus production of raw opium, and also of the coca leaf, from which cocaine is extracted. Furthermore, they would absolutely prohibit the distribution of heroin, an opium derivative, holding it unnecessary in medical or scientific practice. Besides the prohibitions on the production of narcotic raw material, various proposals were advanced for its handling in commerce where necessary.

Walter Johnson's Plans.

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 20.—Walter Johnson will manage and take his turn on the pitching slab as well as being one of the chief owners of the Oakland baseball club, it became known here. The former Washington pitching ace departed for Reno, after the closing up of the details of the deal.

Napoleon's Original Tomb.
The original tomb of Napoleon at St. Helena has fallen into a state of disrepair since the body was removed in state to the Invalides in Paris, according to a letter received from a recent visitor to that remote island. "I walked the five and one-half miles uphill to Longwood, Napoleon's old home," the writer says, "and inspected his much-neglected tomb, which is down in a deep corner of a deep valley—just a slab covered with dirty whitewash—no inscription whatever. The grass around was unkept, and surrounded by a circle, about twenty paces in diameter, of tall trees, and there was nothing anywhere to tell the visitor when the body was removed or to whom the old tomb had belonged."

KEEPING WELL

"COLDS"

Editor of "HEALTH"

WHAT is a "cold" and how do we "catch cold"?

Doctor Gaehtwyler, a Swiss army surgeon, has written an interesting account of observations made during the mobilization of the Swiss army at the time of the World war.

By a "cold" is generally understood an inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the throat or nose, accompanied with difficulty in breathing, sore throat, copious discharge of mucus, and general discomfort. We usually attribute a "cold" to sitting in a draft, getting our feet wet, or some similar cause. Yet men in the trenches, as well as Arctic explorers living among icebergs and snowdrifts, do not "catch cold," although they certainly have wet feet and are exposed to drafts.

We know that some persons are susceptible to "colds" while others are not, but how can this susceptibility be explained? Doctor Gaehtwyler thinks that there are three factors involved—a predisposition, due to lowered body resistance; an opportunity for becoming chilled; and an infection which develops in the body tissues. Whatever the causes, he cautions against neglecting a "cold," since it is often the first stage of a pneumonia which may end the patient's life.

When we "catch" a cold (it would be more correct to say that the cold "catches" us), it is generally because through overeating, overworking, insufficient sleep, or for some other cause, our body resistance is lowered so that we are more susceptible than usual. Then we get in our throat and nose the particular "bugs" which produce these colds, probably from some other person who has a cold and who in sneezing, coughing, spitting or talking throws off small droplets of moisture which contain the infection. The infection may develop at once or may lurk in the body several days until conditions are more favorable for its development. At any rate, through some combination of circumstances, the three conditions are produced—the lowered resistance, the opportunity for chilling and the infection.

How can you make your body more resistant to colds? By getting and keeping in as good physical condition as possible; by breathing pure air at all times; by working and sleeping in well-ventilated rooms; by frequent bathing, using especially cool showers or sponge baths; by drinking plenty of pure water, and by wearing sensible clothing.

Origin of a Marriage Trousseau.

One of the earliest evidences of outfitting for the wedding is found in Genesis in the story of Abraham's servant Eliezer bringing handsome jewels to Rebecca as a seal to the marriage compact. A trace of the custom may be found among the early Eskimos, where the bridegroom must supply his bride with all the clothes necessary for the "honeymoon." In Rumania, clothes and shoes are a very important part of the gifts to the bride. Largely from the customs practiced in that latter country, but also from Italy, Sweden, and Greece, the idea of the marriage trousseau sprang.

Sick Poultry Can Be Cured Any Season of the Year.

Circleville, O., R. F. D. 6,
September 29, 1924.

Mrs. Edward H. Wardell, winner of Grand Sweep Stakes for best dozen eggs in show in Ohio State university, held February, 1924, says:

Mr. F. L. Fickardt, Dear Sir:—

I am only too glad to recommend Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops to any one interested in poultry, as the best preventative for contagious diseases I know of, on the market today. About three years ago cholera broke out in my flock of young chickens, which were then about six weeks old, and weighing about 1½ pounds. There were 175 birds in this flock. As soon as I discovered they were sick I began treating them according to instructions of a specialist. I only lost eleven out of 175, and checked the disease in about three days. At that time Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops was recommended to me as a wonderful medicine to be used as a preventive of contagious diseases. At that time I began using the Drops and have not had an epidemic since, altho I lose one or two now and then from common causes such as apoplexy, egg-bound, etc. I begin giving it to the chicks when they are quite young and from that time on they are never without it. At the present time I am shipping two cases of eggs a week and have been for the last six months, from my flock of 180 hens and I attribute this high egg production to the healthy condition of my flock. I always grade and candle my eggs and I have attained such a degree of perfection that I have less than three per cent of my eggs that do not run over the specified weight of 24 ounces to the dozen. Sincerely,

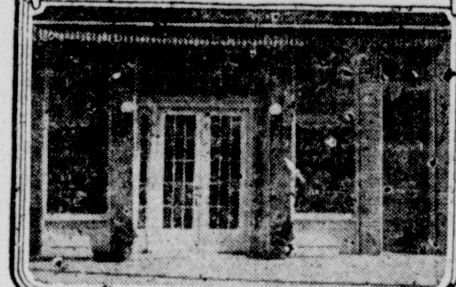

Mrs. Edward H. Wardell.

Playing Cards at Christmas.

In olden times it was a custom to play cards at Christmas, and during the festive season ladies would travel some distance in order to "take a hand" with a friend. There are records which offer numerous examples of this custom, and relate how they went equipped with money for the chances of the game. Card-playing was the subject of special legislation. An act of the time of Henry VII, against unlawful games, forbade the working classes from playing cards except at Christmas. In many a lordly mansion cards and dice games were played for money during the "12 days of Christmas," and at no other season of the year.

"Take It Easy."

A great many young folks make hard work of things that should be perfectly easy, and as long as there are plenty of really hard duties to be done, it seems a pity to make hard work of the rest. One of the arts of life is to learn to do our work in the easiest way, saving on the simple tasks strength to apply to the hard duties.

What You Should Know About Satin

Kinds, Qualities, Textures by Dozen — Manufacturers Use Trade Name.

You won't question the certainty of satin's place among the silks after one trip through the "yard goods" department! For there you are sure to see alluring lengths of the lustrous fabric draped profusely about, observes a writer in the Kansas City Star.

Since you will find satins put out by different manufacturers almost every year under new names, however, and since you are sure to find different kinds, qualities and weights of satin by the dozen, from the extremely lightweight "wash" satins to the heavy stiff-backed satins, the important thing to remember is not the mere names of the cloths, but certain general rules which will guide you in your selection.

Now, satin is always made in the characteristic satin weave—the fine silk warp passes over a group of the filling threads, say seven of them, and then under one, so that nearly all the warp is brought to the surface and nearly all the weft is left underneath. This manner of weaving is chiefly responsible for the high luster all satins have; the variation in gloss comes with the quality of the silk used, since the better the silk the higher the luster; and with the method of finishing and extent to which the goods is "calendered" or pressed between hot rollers. When first taken from loom, satins are somewhat lustrous and rough, and so must be dressed, which process removes the fibrous ends, and also increases the natural brilliance.

You must remember, however, that the higher the gloss of the fabric, the more easily it will wear shabby. For this reason you should select the fine, high-priced satin only for "dress" wear, then you will find that it gives quite satisfactory service. Hard, everyday wear will "rough up" the surface, and give the material a greasy shine. For hard wear you should select short-float satin.

Look at the back of the satin you buy, too, when you consider its durability. A crepe back gives a soft satin which is an excellent choice for gowns of draped styles. But the plain-backed satin is stiffer and will wear much better. Cotton-backed satin is a "good buy" for a lining satin.

When satin first appeared in the trade it was called "aceyuln"; the term slipped through Italian lips as "zetain"; western tongues dropped the "i" and smoothed the name into our silkier-sounding "satin." The material is known to have been in use in England as early as the Fourteenth century, and in France and Spain probably earlier than that.

Rich Dinner Gown of Brown Chiffon Velvet

Showing a very attractive dinner gown of cocoa brown chiffon velvet, trimmed with squirrel fur dyed to match, and a beaded ornament on the hip.

For Stout Women

The stout woman's coat should not be extremely thick and heavy, though it may still be warm. Soft materials that will not increase the wearer's bulk are best. It is doubtful if the short, stout woman should ever wear a fur coat, unless the fur is extremely soft and pliable. Corded materials, or materials with a faint up-and-down stripe, should be becoming. Dark colors with, of course, black leading, are best for the stout woman's coat.

Camellia in Favor

The camellia remains in favor. If white, it ornaments dance frocks and afternoon gowns. If bright red it is likely to find a place on the shoulder of a tailored suit or dress.

FOOTBALL

Last Game of the Season—Eagles vs. Clarksburg—Goal Game Promised.

What will undoubtedly be the big event of the football season is the game which will be played Sunday at Mason's field between the Eagle team and the strong aggregation representing Clarksburg. The Clarksburg team has not lost a game this season and are coming here for this contest with the intention of maintaining their record of wins.

On the other hand the Eagle team have but few wins to brag about but have been playing a hard game of football and have proved to be one of the hardest teams in central Ohio to score against. Two weeks ago these two teams met on the Clarksburg ground and a hard fought battle went to the home team, but the Eagles had them fighting for their record during the entire second half.

The Clarksburg aggregation has a large following of very partisan rooters and they claim that they will invade Circleville 500 strong next Sunday to root their team on to victory if possible. The Eagle lodge are now arranging to attend the game en masse and it is hoped that this game will bring out all Circleville fans to pull for the home team and even up the side line support.

In anticipation of a large crowd twelve members of the Eagles will be sworn in a special police to keep everybody except players and officials behind the side line wires.

The Eagle team should be in good condition for this game. It is expected that Palm, Neff and Cupp all of whom have been on the hospital list will be ready to go back in the line-up and it is probable that at least two new faces may be seen. Clarksburg also promises to bring the strongest team they have had this season. In Fred Wing and Bill Betts they claim to have the Brick Mueller and Red Grange of central Ohio. From appearance neither team will have any alibi after the game on account of not having their players in condition.

The game will be called at two o'clock Central Standard time and the attendance record should be broken at that hour. This will be the last at home game for the Eagle team this year and this game will be well worth seeing.

AMUSEMENTS

"Tiger Love" a new Paramount picture, directed by George Melford and featuring Antonio Moreno and Estelle Taylor, comes to the Met theater on Thursday for a run of two days. The story is an adaptation of the popular Spanish opera, "The Wildcat" by Manuel Penella.

It is a story rich in the romance and fire of old Spain and one of the most dramatic tales ever transferred to the screen. It is the love story of a great bandit chief and the daughter of an aristocrat, and it has a happy ending.

"Tiger Love" is a swift-moving drama, portraying the life of a modern Robin Hood. One of the bandit's lieutenants captures a beautiful daughter of the rich and carries her off to a mountain stronghold. But the Wildcat (Moreno) undergoes a change of heart and sends the girl back home unharmed.

One night the Wildcat hears of a wedding to be held in the city. At midnight he invades the residence to steal the presents and comes face to face with Marcheta. In a moment of remorse she tells him her father and the mayor of Goya are forcing her to marry Ramon, nephew of the mayor. As Marcheta and her fop bridegroom are about to enter the church the following day the Wildcat at the head of his band of desperadoes abducts them from under the nose of a heavy guard of soldiers and takes them to his mountain stronghold. There he tries to make Roman fight him for Marcheta's hand but Ramon faints from sheer cowardice. In defiance of her father Marcheta decides it is the Wildcat she loves and altho he is a hunted man with a price on his head, she will marry him.

From this point on in the story, the picture builds to a smashing climax and by smashing we mean smashing. Here's that something different in screen entertainment you've been waiting for so long.

A NOTABLE JOURNALIST

Guy J. Karger, the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star, who died Sunday, was as defiantly a part of the capital scene as the White House, or the monument. Who ever really knew Mr. Karger, respected his influence and his integrity and delighted in his wit. Republican presidents and pundits had for many years leaned upon his judgment; Democratic readers had acknowledged his presentation and the newspaper corps had made Mr. Karger its spokesman on as many occasions as he would assume the role.

To William H. Taft and to Warren Harding in particular Mr. Karger was friend and guide. In the nomination and election of each to the presidency the part he played was essential. Through him the essence of conservative Republicanism was distilled and diffused, for both officially and unofficially he was the testing ground for Republican publicity. If there was ever a newsman who played a great part behind the paper correspondent in Washington scenes in shaping party and national destinies it was Guy Karger. And he had the poise, the character and the sense of proportion which enabled him to survive the temptation to seem profound or self-important.

He could have occupied high place in administration, but he had learned too much about politics to care for place, and so the only public which knew him was that among which his newspaper circulated. His amused commentary on affairs if gathered into a book would be as shrewd as and less cynical than Talleyrand's. And the stories with which he illustrated his judgment would keep after dinner political orators in material for years. Mr. Karger never took himself too seriously. "I hear," said a coworker one day, "that Taft comes to you for advice on everything." "He does," said Mr. Karger, "and after I give it to him he does what he damned pleases."—New York World.

FUNERAL OF W. H. HOWELL.

The committee on department of public safety reported by recommending that the furnace in the basement of the fire department building be removed and that the floor be repaired by placing concrete thereon. This report was received.

The committee on department of public safety reported by recommending that the director of public service be requested to notify the Ohio Utilities company to clean the globes of their street light. This report was received.

Mr. Baker as chairman of the committee heretofore appointed to confer with the officials and attorneys for the Pickaway Water company, reported that the committee had had a meeting and that the Water company reported that the price they were asking for their plant was $210,000 and that this was the least they would take, with the exception that they will give to the city the coal which they have on the ground which will run the plant for about two years. On motion of Mr. Shaner the matter of purchasing the water plant was referred to a committee consisting of all the members of council, together with the attorneys representing the city and the mayor and that this committee have a meeting next Friday evening at 7 o'clock. Motion carried.

On account of the fact that a number of the property owners had failed to pay their street oiling assessments for the year of 1924, it is necessary to borrow the additional sum of $850 at this time; a resolution authorizing and instructing the mayor and city auditor to borrow the sum of $850 was introduced and read for the first time. On motion by Mr. Baker the rules were suspended and the resolution was adopted.

Mr. Shaner offered a motion which was seconded that the clerk of council be instructed not to certify to the county auditor at this time, the assessments against the property owners for the improvement of High street, as reported by the assessment board and published in Ordinance No. 511 for the reason that said assessment was made by using the total amount of the bond issue, instead of using the amount which will be expended for this improvement and that the assessments will be less than those heretofore published. Motion carried.

Director Schneider reported that the Norfolk and Western Railway company had presented to him a bill in the sum of $131.09 for labor expended by said company caused by the city running a sewer under their tracks at High street. Mr. Shaner offered a motion which was seconded that this matter be referred to the committee on department of public service together with the city solicitor and director of public service. Motion carried.

Mr. Shaner offered a motion which was seconded that the matter of forcing the payment for all delinquent oiling assessments be referred to the committee on law and claims. Motion carried.

Mr. Baker offered a motion which was seconded that the matter of making a contract with the county commissioners to care for the city prisoners, be referred to the committee on department of public safety, together with the mayor and director of public safety, with power to act. Motion carried.

"Where You Can Always Do Better"

Lake Erie Named After Indian Tribe.
When the French first explored this country, they found a tribe of Indians called "Eries" living in the vicinity of the lake immediately west of Lake Ontario, this inland sea was given an Indian name, and called Lake Erie, after the tribe. The Eries were a race of Indians of close kin to the Iroquois. When Hiawatha organized that ambitious federation of Indians known as the Five Nations, in which the Iroquois were the predominating race, a bitter warfare was waged against all other tribes. The Eries came in a conflict with the Five Nations and were conquered and practically wiped out. Their name still lives in the title of the lake near which they dwelt for so many years before the coming of the white man.

Bird's Clever Ruse.

All creatures, including man, know and avoid snakes, so the great-crest not only takes a snake skin into the nesting hole, but usually takes care to leave a little of the end protruding. It is a very definite warning to nest disturbers. It is a bold small boy who will put his hand and arm into a hole from which a snake skin protrudes. I doubt if a chipmunk or a jay would enter a hole under such conditions, and I like to fancy that the great-crest reasoned it all out ages ago and wisely established the custom which has since existed. Great-crest flycatchers are useful and most interesting birds. They may be attracted to the home grounds by putting out flicker-sized nesting boxes.—Winthrop Packard, Secretary Massachusetts Audubon society.

Shark God Once Favorite Fiji Deity.

Among the Fijians in former times the favorite deity of the boatmen and fishermen, and one greatly feared by them, was the shark god. His name was Daquawaqa (pronounced Dake-wonga). This deity was greatly feared and it was believed by all seafarers that to adventure into his domain without making sacrifice was extremely foolhardy and in defiance of faith. His favorite sacrifice to the Fijian god was a drink of yangona root—the kava of Fijians. Native mythology is naturally full of tales relating to the ferocity of Daquawaqa, who is usually described not in the form of a shark, as might be supposed, but rather in the shape of a huge jew fish or angel fish.

MOTHS! MOTHS!

What are they? Most people know but do you know? A solution for the protection of your clothes during the time they are not in use? You no doubt have noticed that moths will not work just in one spot but will eat a little here and there that is proof that there is something there they like. A sure prevention is to have your clothing thoroly cleaned that destroys all moths; even the eggs or other germs that may be in the garment then pack them or hang them in a moth proof bag which we furnish free with each suit, coat or overcoat we clean.

RED CROSS

Annual Roll Call is Now on in Pickaway County Chapter.

Yearly the American Red Cross invites all the people to enter its ranks and thru membership take part in the great humanitarian work performed by this organization.

The annual roll call of Pickaway county chapter, is now on with T. D. Krinn s roll call chairman. Mr. Krinn made a most efficient chairman last year and it is his earnest desire to have a renewal of all members and many new ones added.

A duty is resting upon all to aid the ex-service man and his family and we should make it unmistakably clear the debt we owe every American soldier for their lofty, unselfish sacrifice in wartime call.

In the year the chapter has been in active service it has been able to assist many ex-service men in obtaining from the government, hospitalization, compensation, home treatment or vocational training. It has brought into the county in back compensation over $7000 and monthly awards ranging from $8 to over $100 per month, according to the per cent of disability.

The Red Cross has proved to be an indispensable instrument for the alleviation of suffering and you should give it your generous support. The membership fee is $1.

with that "fresh air" taste

Delicious—and so beautiful in their even shape and coloring. And little wonder! For they were baked with "fresh air"—in the wonderful oven of the Estate Gas Range. The fumes of burning gas never enter this oven—only fresh air, heated and sterilized by the exclusive Estate method, touches the food.

And this heated fresh air is distributed so uniformly throughout the oven that no matter in what part you place your baking, the same uniform results are certain. No "pot-watching", no shifting pans—the oven ends all this worry.

Decide today you'll be one of the many thousands of good cooks using the Estate. We'll gladly show you the range and all its features.

MACK PARRETT

No Sinecure.

The following notice was tacked on the door of his office by the postmaster of a small southern town: "All parties expecting mail are hereby notified that they better come around for it in advance any day before next Thursday, that being the day we have appointed to go hunting, not having had a holiday from the government since July 4th, said government seeming to forget that being only human, we need rest and recreation occasionally. There's some little mail here for the Hawkines and for Joe Robertson, but we guess it doesn't amount to much, seeing it's all got one-cent stamps on it. There ain't nothing much in the business nohow. There's a newspaper from Selma here for Steve Tuttle. It says Gus Loftus left his wife. Otherwise it ain't exciting."

Shaky Table Leg.

When rooms are cleaned tables are pulled and pushed about and the result is a loose leg. If you have a table with loose legs don't use a hammer and nails. You will probably get across the grain of the wood and split it. A long, thin, carefully inserted screw might avail, but the best cure is to tip the table up, note where the trouble is and then get some strong glue. Now, quickly drop glue into the joints of that table leg, then pull it straight, and don't move the table for 24 hours. Home glueing often fails because it does not reach the place where it is wanted, and is not allowed to "set."

One Way to See Ghosts.

An eminent investigator has reported some interesting observations on a new visual phenomenon, which, he suggests, may have some connection with the subjective production of images, ghosts, wraiths, telepathic visions and so forth, in certain conditions of the mind and body. The phenomenon he describes may be witnessed by fixing the eyes, or preferably one eye, the other being closed, steadily on a distant electric light, or a very brilliant star, all other lights being carefully screened off. After a while the watched light will begin to exhibit curious movements, the origin of which, it is thought, is in the cerebral center for vision.

SHOOT DU PONT POWDERS

The Phantom Fog-Horn

By CHART PITT

PETE KETTLESON, keeper of the Muk-muk lighthouse, heaved a sigh of relief as he settled down in his easy chair. He lifted his fat hand and scratched his bald head thoughtfully. He had feasted upon his favorite dish—and Dogfish Dan Swanson was dead at last.

Ten years ago Dan had wrecked his schooner in a fog. The Vampire had plied upon the rocks right in front of the lighthouse—wrecked within pistol-shot of the silent fog-signal—and Dan had blamed Keeper Kettleison for it all.

But Dogfish Dan was dead now, and Pete still clung to his government job over at the lighthouse. Some uncanny impulse had compelled Kettleison to go to the funeral of the man whom he had hated so long and bitterly. But now when it was over he wished he had stayed at home. For Danny Swanson, the old man's son, had glared at him from across the coffin—and the boy had grown to look like his father—too much like his father to suit Pete.

One by one the lights of the town went out, and the lightkeeper began to feel sleepy there in his easy chair. The clock ticked off its minutes upon the wall. It, too, was getting drowsy, and its voice seemed farther and farther away to the nodding man. Midnight came; the eery hush of a dreaming world hung over the lighthouse where Pete Kettleison sat in the depths of his easy chair, sleeping on his watch—with his educated ear close to the open crack of the window, so he would be sure to wake up if the boats began whistling for fog.

The faithless lightkeeper slept peacefully on, and out in the night the neglected light blinked on—with none to watch it except the eyes of the Almighty.

Then Pete Kettleison sprang from his chair, with the echoes of a fog-horn still ringing in his ears. The haze of sleep was in his eyes as he bolted for the engine room and started the fog signal. When the machinery was in motion, Pete went outside. He was a bit curious to know if there were any ships close to the rocks—and whether Muk-muk light was due for another investigation.

Then he swore.

Above him the midnight stars were burning—bright and clear. He looked out to sea, but there was no trace of fog.

He hurried in and stopped the signal, and returned to his quarters. He poked up his fire, then settled down in his chair again, with his educated ear close to the crack in the window. Once more he was sleeping, as he had slept for twenty years—on his watch.

The clock upon the wall ticked off the minutes. Deeper and deeper the bald-headed lightkeeper sank into the black bogs of Morpheus. But that wise old ear of his was at the window, listening, listening for some alien sound in the night.

Then once more Pete Kettleison sprang to his feet. The whistles were blowing again. Almost automatically he staggered inside, and started the engine. For twenty years he had tended the lights, and his hands had grown used to doing the work with little aid from his sleepy brain. But at the first blast of the signal he remembered something—and darted outside.

The lightkeeper became alarmed. For a score of years he had slept on his watch, trusting his sharp ears to awaken him if the boats began blowing for fog—now his ears were beginning to play him false. To keep awake nights, as lightkeepers were supposed to do, was out of the question. That habit of taking cat-naps was too firmly fixed to be broken.

For an hour Pete Kettleison tramped back and forth across the lighthouse grounds. He was afraid to go to sleep again, and it was almost impossible for him to keep awake.

Then he heard it—a fog-whistle out of the night. He wheeled toward the signal—then he stopped. It came again—louder—a whistle such as never blew on land or sea—the whistle of the phantom fleet that steer their eternal courses across the ocean of the damned.

For a moment the guilty lightkeeper stood there with his wide eyes staring out into the black night. Then he remembered about Dogfish Dan—who was dead.

It was ten years since the old fisherman had spoken to him—but those last words rang like a banshee's cry in his fear-sharpened ears.

"You slept on your watch, Pete Kettleison—and I lost my ship because of you—and if I had gone down with the Vampire—I would have come back and haunted you!"

Now Dogfish Dan was dead—and the phantom horns were blowing—out there on the reefs of the Muk-muk—where the bones of the Vampire lay.

He rushed into his quarters and bolted the door: a fear-haunted man who knew retribution had found him at last. Back and forth across the floor he walked, while out in the murk of the lonely night the phantom horns kept blowing—the voice of lost ships cursing him from the graveyards of the sea.

In the gray gloom of the dawn, a canoe came creeping in from the reefs of Muk-muk. Danny Swanson smiled softly to himself as he hid his boat among the weeds. Then he stole away toward the cabin on the hill—with a basket of assorted conch-shell whistles under his arm.

"Amen"

If you are not happy on the way don't be too mean to shout "Amen" while the rest of the world cries "Halleluia."

Theories of the Formation of Oil.

That petroleum is of organic origin, is the opinion of the majority of geologists. The point to its persistent occurrence in sedimentary rocks, but as to whether it has been derived from animals or plants, and, if the latter, whether from marine or land forms, they are undecided. Moreover, the exact details of the process by which organic matter has been converted into oil and gas are somewhat obscure. As opposed to the organic theory is the inorganic one, which assumes that the oil and gas may be hydrocarbons, formed at great depths by the action of steam on metallic carbides—a process that can be demonstrated experimentally, but which is not borne out by field evidence. Another inorganic theory having many adherents but assented to by few geologists, is that the hydrocarbons of oil and gas are volcanic exhalations.

"MARCHETA"

"Earn Your Salt."

When any one earns a salary he is really "earning his salt," for the word salary has a very interesting story. When the Roman governor traveled on his rounds through the provinces which he governed, the people at each stopping place had to provide him with food for his horses and salt for himself. This was his salary—salt being the Latin for salt—or his "salt money."

SOCIAL CALENDAR

At the beautiful Pinkney street home, Mrs. Willson H. Pontius and daughter, Mrs. Clarence Ater, Mrs. Harvey S. Heffner and daughter, Miss Mary, received Wednesday afternoon in six periods from 12 to 6 o'clock. The assisting hostesses were Mrs. Irvin F. Snyder, Mrs. O. D. Mader, Mrs. Emanuel S. Neuding, Mrs. C. L. Moeller and Mrs. Irwin Boggs. Mrs. Charles Mason, Mrs. G. A. Schleyer and Mrs. Albert Crist poured. A bevy of young girls assisted in the dining room and also served ices. The home was most artistically decorated in white and yellow chrysanthemums. The color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in the decorations as well as the refreshments. Five hundred and fifty invitations were issued and three hundred and fifty ladies responded, among them were out of town guests from Ashville, Williamsport, Chillicothe and Columbus.

Mrs. Lincoln M. Mader and Mrs. George Littleton have issued invitations to a dinner bridge for Tuesday, November 25.

The Mocking Bird.

The mocking bird is a native of America and the West Indies, and is remarkable for its vocal powers and for its faculty for imitating other birds as well as different sounds which it hears. Its voice is full and musical, and capable of modulation, from the clear tone of the woodthrush to the scream of the eagle.

ENTERTAINS EVANGELIST

The Rev. and Mrs. M. E. Stretch, of El Paso, Illinois, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rudisill of Pickaway township the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Stretch are traveling evangelists and were just returning from a three-weeks engagement at Oil City, Pennsylvania, which closed Sunday night. After spending a few days with relatives and friends in Kingston and Columbus they expect to go to Allensville, Illinois, where they are booked for a three week's engagement commencing next Sunday, November 23. Mrs. Stretch is a cousin of Mr. Rudisill, she being a daughter of Mrs. Susanah Rudisill Betz, a former Pickaway county girl, who was a sister of the late Elizabeth Hammel, of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Stretch have been in the evangelistic work for 37 years.

PERSONALS

Miss Abbe Clarke spent the day in Columbus.

Paul Valentine was a business visitor in Columbus today.

George Lohr, of Amanda, was a business visitor in Columbus today.

Ford Coupe Recovered

The Ford coupe of John C. Goeller Jr., which was stolen during the Pumpkin show from in front of his residence on North Court street, was recovered at Lancaster last Monday. Mr. Goeller went to Lancaster and drove his "Lizzie" home. The thief who stole the car had not been apprehended. The car was found within six miles of Lancaster. It had been thoroughly overhauled. The valves were ground, the engine had been removed and thoroughly cleaned and there was three new tires on the bus. Outside of the fact of being inconvenienced and the trouble of getting his car back, the owner is better off than he was before the car was stolen.

Sentence "Stumped" Wise Men. The following short sentence, says Bombaugh's "Facts and Fancies," was dictated by Lord Palmerston to eleven cabinet ministers, every one of whom made some mistake in spelling it: "It is disagreeable to witness the embarrassment of a harassed peddler gauging the symmetry of a peeled potato." Try it on your friends.

BRICK MUELLER & RED GRANGE of central Ohio football are the terms applied to Fred Wing and Bill Betts of the Clarksburg team. See them in action Sunday. 20novd3.

KEEPING WELL

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO RETIRE TO?

Editor of "HEALTH"
(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

A LARGE city bank recently celebrated its fiftieth anniversary by placing five of its oldest employees on the "retired list." These men who had faithfully served the bank for from thirty to forty-seven years, were given pensions for the rest of their lives. Fine. That's what honest workers ought to have. But when the newspaper reporters asked these five men what they expected to do with their new-found and unaccustomed leisure, only one man had any definite plans. The paying teller, who had worked for forty-five years, had an orange grove in Florida which would keep him busy. The others "didn't know just what they would do."

Strangely enough, the next column in the newspaper announcing the retirement of these five old men contained a paragraph from New York, stating that Steve, the big seventeen-hand bay horse of the Cummings Construction company had been retired on his forty-fifth birthday. No—reporter asked Steve how he was going to enjoy his pension. But Steve knows. Plenty of hay and oats, the run of the pasture and a warm, dry stall are all he needs. Eating and sleeping will fill the rest of his life.

That's all right for animals, but the human mind and body needs something more. The man who has been active all his life isn't content any longer with mere living. When all need for work is over he must have something to take its place, to give him interest in life, and to stimulate his brain. If he doesn't have it he soon gets moody and discontented. He thinks about himself because he has nothing else to think about. He develops all sorts of imaginary complaints, besides those of old age, and from thinking constantly that he is sick he soon becomes sick.

This isn't Christian Science. It's everyday common sense. It's what happens every day to men who have toiled a lifetime so as to be able to "retire" and when the chance finally comes they have nothing to retire to. That's the reason why cancer, kidney and heart disease are more common among retired farmers than among farmers of the same age who keep on with their active work.

Retire by all means, as soon as you can. That's the sensible thing for every man and woman to work for. Only be sure you have something to retire to. It doesn't matter whether you are a banker or a day laborer, whether you retire on fifty or five thousand dollars a month. Have some other interest to take up your time when your need of daily work is gone.
